

Ghosts, Silences, Hidden Things – Taxidermic Cinema Workshop

_workshop

Cinema and taxidermy have much in common: both bring subjects to life for viewing pleasure, for preservation and/or as research. In this workshop, participants explored these intersections by preparing short, audiovisual stories. Filming the museum's taxidermied animals, we explored how to be taxidermic in our filmic approach: what stories do we preserve, reanimate, communicate? Which images, sounds and text do we research and collect in order to do so? And what other entrails might we set aside in the process?

Debbie Onuoha is a Ghanaian-Nigerian with a passion for words and moving images. She currently works as a visual anthropologist at the Centre for Anthropological Research on Museums and Heritage (CARMAH). With backgrounds in history, documentary and anthropology, her work focuses on filming ghosts, silences and hidden things in museums, archives and heritage spaces.

ODDKIN°labs_

ODDKIN°labs are experimental workshops exploring unexpected relations for more-than-human worlds.

The first labs series was situated in the Museum für Naturkunde Berlin, questioning objects, spaces and narratives with a trans-disciplinary approach.

In each session, a new ensemble of practitioners from different fields – including from the Museum itself – critically engaged with the themes of coevolution, taxidermy, and stone (hi)stories.

Each theme was set by a host through her art & science practice.
Multispecies Storytelling – Constanza Mendoza
Taxidermic Cinema – Debbie Onuoha
Stratigraphic Storytelling – Sybille Neumeyer

This poster is a curated partial re-elaboration of the ODDKIN°-lab 0.1, which was held on June 4th 2019 in the Experimentierfeld at the Museum.

*»Staying with the trouble requires making oddkin;
that is, we require each other in unexpected collaborations and combinations, in hot compost piles.
We become-with each other or not at all.«*

Unexpected relations for more-than-human worlds

Co-designed by Chiara Garbellotto and Sina Ribak in cooperation with the Museum für Naturkunde Berlin and Humboldt Universität.

Chiara Garbellotto is a doctoral researcher on the Making Differences Project at the Centre for Anthropological Research on Museums and Heritage (CARMAH). Her research focuses on how 'biodiversity' and 'participation' are co-produced and how knowing and caring are mobilised in museum public engagement.

Sina Ribak – researcher for ecologies and the arts – is an engineer in environmental management and nature conservation working at the interface of nature and culture. With her socio-ecological focus she engages in international collaborative projects contributing to transdisciplinary research. Since 2017 she is co-director of the Berlin based 'Between Us and Nature' Reading Club.
